

2019 Medicines Shortages Survey results

3 168 total responses

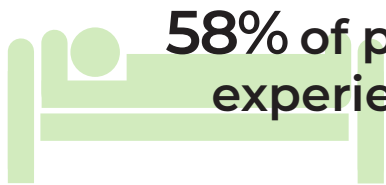

Physicians:

209 responses from 22 countries

72% of physicians said that shortages of medicines are currently a problem

32% of physicians found their national public reporting system on shortages to be useful and regularly updated

58% of physicians are aware that the shortage experienced had an impact on patient care

Type of medicines most frequently in shortage

43% Antimicrobial agents

23% Blood derivate products

31% Preventative medicines

41% physicians didn't receive feedback from their national competent authority/authorities when reporting a medicine shortage

